

March 23

2016
OVERTON AND LAVONA CURRIE LECTURE

Geshe Thupten Jinpa Balancing Compassion, Justice and Religious Beliefs: Some Perspectives from the Buddhist Traditions

Response from Michael J. Perry, Followed by discussion

Thupten Jinpa holds both the Geshe Lharam degree from the Shartse College of Ganden Monastic University, South India, and a PhD in religious studies from Cambridge University, England. Jinpa has been the principal English translator to His Holiness the Dalai Lama since 1985.

Michael J. Perry is Woodruff University Chair at Emory University, where he teaches in the law school. Perry is also a Senior Fellow at Emory University's Center for the Study of Law and Religion and a co-editor of the Journal of Law and Religion.

March 23, 2016
7:30 p.m.
Michael C. Carlos Museum
Reception Hall

Free and open to the public
Parking available in the Fishburne Visitors
Deck or the Oxford Road Parking Deck

The Currie Lecture is made possible through a generous gift from Overton and Lavona Currie and the Currie family. This year's Currie Lecture is presented in collaboration with the Emory-Tibet Partnership.

