Executive Summary

The 2022-2023 academic year was a whirlwind of celebrations and new beginnings at the Center for the Study of Law and Religion. As we marked the Center's fortieth anniversary, we also celebrated the roll out of Emory Law's concentration in law and religion within its JD program.

One of our major highlights this year was CSLR at Forty, an open house event that brought over 60 faculty, staff, fellows, students, alumni, and friends to Emory Law's Hunter Atrium. On display were posters from each decade of the Center's robust and storied past. Dean Mary Anne Bobinski called the Center a "center of excellence, and a crown jewel" at the Law School, and CSLR Faculty Director John Witte, Jr., highlighted the Center's role as "laboratory for faculty and students to do creative interdisciplinary work." CSLR Executive Director Whittney Barth expressed the Center's ongoing commitment to "encouraging rigorous scholarship that is accessible to a wide public." We awarded prizes to graduating students and recognized graduating student members of the Journal of Law and Religion. To further celebrate the fortieth anniversary milestone, Emory Historian Emeritus Gary Hauk penned Forty Years of Law and Religion, a beautifully written and richly archival history of the Center that is available online.

Student engagement and teaching remain a focal point in our Center's mission. CSLR core faculty and fellows taught hundreds of Emory students during the 2022-2023 academic year in courses that include Islamic Finance (Lee Ann Bambach) and Religion, Culture, and Law in Comparative Perspective (Hallie Ludsin), among others. Last November, we kicked off our year-long celebration of the Center's fortieth anniversary with cake during Emory Law's weekly student social. Just a few short weeks ago, in mid-August, Executive Director Whittney Barth addressed Emory Law's class of incoming 1Ls during Orientation.

Scholarship, too, took center stage. Throughout the year, the Center hosted monthly works in progress sessions for faculty and fellows to share their work, one of several ways we strive to cultivate a scholarly community of mutual support. Some of those papers are available as part of the Center's SSRN series. At the start of the spring semester, we also welcomed Dr. Mariam Chughtai to the Center for a lunchtime discussion of her forthcoming book exploring the different religious ideologies promoted through education policies in Pakistan's public schools. In February, we hosted "Continuing the Conversation: Early Arguments and Contemporary Thoughts" to celebrate the distinguished teaching career of Michael J. Perry and the Festschrift published in his honor by the Emory Law Journal (Volume 71, Issue 7 \(2022\)).

March was a bustling month as Atlanta's beautiful spring took hold. We welcomed back over a dozen McDonald Distinguished Fellows to Emory Law for a two-day workshop, led by John Witte, Jr. with invaluable support from Amy Wheeler. During their visit, some fellows discussed their research updates with our student team. Those talks are available here, here, here, and here. As the current fellowship concludes (2019-2024), we are pleased to announce a recent \$2 million gift from the McDonald Agape Foundation to convene a new fellowship cohort from 2024-2029. That gift came on the cusp of the new year, stay tuned for updates as that initiative gets underway.

In the final days of March, McDonald Fellows Terri Montague (CSLR) and Brandon Paradise (Rutgers Law) convened a day-long symposium on law, Christianity, and racial justice, with contributions being published in a forthcoming symposium issue with the Journal of Law and Religion and the Journal of Political Theology. Colleagues from around Emory University joined for a lunchtime discussion with the Rev. Dr. Bernice King and Dr. Cornel West.

In April, the Center hosted a webinar to celebrate the Journal of Law and Religion's fortieth anniversary, led by JLR Managing Editor Silas Allard with assistance from Rachael Orbeta. A few days later, Canopy Forum hosted a webinar on the future of religious property. This past Spring, with the help of our talented undergraduate student producer, Eythen Anthony, the Center revamped our podcast Interactions, with CSLR fellows Ira Bedzow and Matthew Cavedon as co-hosts. Our upcoming Interactions season will feature new scholarship from CSLR faculty and fellows. Find Interactions at the link above or on all major podcast platforms.

At the end of August, the Center completed a multi-year study of law and Protestant ministry. Funded by a generous grant from the Lilly Endowment, Inc., the Study employed legal research and qualitative and quantitative methods to better understand the legal issues Protestant leaders face within their ministries, the frequency of those encounters, as well as leaders' knowledge about the law and existing resources. Read the full report and listen to a special episode of the Interactions podcast discussing themes from the Study.

Our community also said a few good-byes this past year. Spruill Family Professor of Law and Religion Rafael Domingo returned to his native Spain where he holds the Alvaro d'Ors Professor of Law at the University of Navarra. Canopy Forum Managing Editor and Director of Academic Programs Justin Latterell transitioned out of his role at the Center to launch his own company. Gary Hauk wrapped up his time as Senior Editor to focus on other projects. The Center would like to thank Rafael, Justin, and Gary for all that they brought to the Center community over the years. We wish them the very best in these next chapters.

Sadly, we experienced a great loss in May with the passing of Johan van der Vyver, a long-time member of the Emory Law faculty and expert in international human rights law. As CSLR Faculty Director John Witte, Jr., wrote in his tribute, Johan "was a giant in the legal academy with high standing around the globe for his brilliant contributions to many fields of legal study." Please watch for more information about plans to honor Johan and his memory.

With the new academic year underway, we are fortunate to be able to welcome new faculty, staff, and fellows to the Center. Ariel Liberman will join as Canopy Forum's new managing editor and the Center's inaugural Director of Undergraduate Outreach and Engagement in January 2024. A hearty thanks to John Bernau and Christy Green for serving as interim co-managing editors of Canopy Forum. We are also excited this year to undertake new scholarly projects, such the new law, religion, and artificial intelligence working group led by Michael Broyde and Whitney Barth. This year also brings with it the inaugural CSLR Faculty Advisory Committee, which will advise Center leadership and allow us to deepen our connections across Emory's units and departments. We thank each member of the Committee for their willingness to collaborate with the Center in this new way.

Scholarship Highlights

Producing and promoting pathbreaking scholarship is a pillar of both the Center's legacy and its ongoing mission. To date, Center faculty and fellows have published more than 380 books (in fifteen languages) and thousands of articles and book chapters, largely with university and trade presses and in numerous journals. The Center now edits five book series published by Brill, Cambridge, Wm. B. Eerdmans, Routledge, and Thomson Reuters Aranzadi. Since 2013, the Center has been home to the Journal of Law and Religion, the flagship journal in the field.

Over the past several years, the Center has prioritized making scholarship available through digital platforms, including SSRN, Google Scholar, ResearchGate, and Emory Law School's Scholarly Commons.

Canopy Forum, the Center's online publication of expert analysis on law and religion for broad audiences, had another strong year in 2022–23 with 118 essays published.

New Books by Core CSLR Faculty and Fellows

During the 2022–23 academic year, scholarly productivity continued to thrive at CSLR. Core faculty and fellows produced 7 new books.

New Volumes Published in CSLR Book Series

Brill Perspectives on Law and Religion

Brill Perspectives on Law and Religion, coedited by Director of the Law and Religion Centre at Cardiff Law School Norman Doe and CSLR Faculty Director John Witte, Jr., published 1 book this year.

Witte Jr., John. In Defense of the Marital Family. Leiden: Brill, 2023 (also listed above).

Cambridges Studies in Law and Christianity

The Cambridge Studies in Law and Christianity Series is an ongoing collaboration between CSLR and Cambridge University Press. The series features cutting-edge scholarship on Catholic, Protestant, and Orthodox Christian contributions to public, private, penal, and procedural law and legal theory. Works collected by the series include groundbreaking monographs and historical and thematic anthologies. Created in 2014, the series is edited by John Witte, Jr., with a fifteen-member international editorial board. No new volumes were published in this series during 2022-2023.

CSLR, in collaboration with the Centre for Law and Religion at Cardiff University, commissions and publishes titles in the Routledge Law and Religion Series, edited by Norman Doe, director of the Cardiff Centre. This series published 8 new titles this past academic year:

Allard, Silas W., Kristin Heyer, and Raj Nadella, eds. Christianity and the Law of Migration. 1st ed. London: Routledge, 2023 (also listed above).

Beckett, Paul. Labour Rights and the Catholic Church: The International Labour Organisation, the Holy See and Catholic Social Teaching. 1st ed., London: Routledge, 2022.

Flake, Kathleen, and Nathan B. Oman, eds. Democracy, Religion, and Commerce: Private Markets and the Public Regulation of Religion. 1st ed. London: Routledge, 2023.

Longchamps de Bérrier, Franciszek, and Rafael Domingo, eds. Law and Christianity in Poland: The Legacy of the Great Jurists. 1st ed. London: Routledge, 2022 (also listed above).

Valliere, Paul, and Randall A. Poole, eds. Law and the Christian Tradition in Modern Russia. 1st ed. London: Routledge, 2023.

Emory Studies in Law and Religion (Wm. B. Eerdmans)

CSLR publishes the Emory Studies in Law and Religion Series with Wm. B. Eerdmans Publishing. One book was published this past year:

Berg, Thomas C. Religious Liberty in a Polarized Age. Grand Rapids: Wm. B. Eerdmans, 2023.

Raíces del derecho (Thomson Reuters Aranzadi)

Raíces del derecho (Roots of Law) is a new series by Thomson Reuters Aranzadi, the leading legal publisher in Spain. Coedited by Rafael Domingo, Spruill Family Professor of Law and Religion, and John Witte, the series will publish books in Spanish with wide distribution in Europe and Latin America. Included will be fresh scholarship from Spanish-speaking authors, and new Spanish translations of the “best scholarship of the best scholars” in the non-Spanish-speaking world. This series published 2 books this year.

Domingo, Rafael. Derecho y Trascendencia. Madrid: Thomson Reuters Aranzadi, 2023 (also listed above).

Witte Jr., John. Raíces Protestantes Del Derecho. Edited and translated by Rafael Domingo. Madrid: Thomson Reuters Aranzadi, 2023 (also listed above).

Additional Partnership

CSLR also collaborates with the Research Center for International and Interdisciplinary Theology (FIIT) at the University of Heidelberg on a series of workshops and volumes on “Character Formation, Ethical Education, and the Communication of Values in Late Modern Pluralistic Societies.” Led by Michael Welker, director of FIIT, and John Witte, Jr., several CSLR faculty and fellows have contributed chapters to the series, and senior editor Gary Hauk has been lead editorial consultant. Four new volumes in this series were published in the past year, focused on the impact of health care, the media, the military, and political economy.

New Articles and Book Chapters

During the 2022–23 academic year, CSLR’s core faculty and fellows published 39 scholarly articles, book chapters, book reviews, along with 16 shorter articles, editorials, and essays. These publications, 55 in total, are listed in Appendix I.

Edited at CSLR since 2014 and published as an imprint of Cambridge University Press, the Journal of Law and Religion (JLR) is the flagship journal in our field. JLR publishes cutting-edge interdisciplinary, interreligious, and international research on critical issues of law and religion, and it reaches a global audience of both readers and contributors. JLR celebrated forty years of publishing in 2023 with an online symposium reflecting on the history and future of the journal. Read more about the celebration and watch a video of the symposium here.

JLR is managed by CSLR Senior Fellows Silas Allard and M. Christian (Christy) Green and draws on the expertise of a fifteen-member editorial board comprising prominent scholars in law and religion from across disciplines and around the globe:

- ☐ Silas W. Allard (Emory University)
- ☐ Michael J. Broyde (Emory University)
- ☐ Joseph E. David (Sapir Academic College)
- ☐ Donald R. Davis, Jr. (University of Texas at Austin)
- ☐ Rafael Domingo (Emory University; University of Navarra)
- ☐ Farid Esack (University of Johannesburg)
- ☐ M. Christian Green (Emory University)
- ☐ M. Cathleen Kaveny (Boston College)
- ☐ Mirjam Künkler (Netherlands Institute for Advanced Study)
- ☐ Linda C. McClain (Boston University)
- ☐ Mark L. Movsesian (St. John's University)
- ☐ Jaclyn L. Neo (National University of Singapore)
- ☐ Mona Siddiqui (University of Edinburgh)
- ☐ Brent A. Strawn (Duke University)
- ☐ John Witte, Jr. (Emory University)

In addition to the editorial board, JLR is supported by a forty-three-person international advisory board and dozens of peer reviewers from across academic disciplines.

JLR attracted 7,863 subscriptions and 54,364 article downloads in 2022–23. The Journal continues to work with Cambridge University Press on a plan to become fully open access by 2025.

This past year, JLR published 29 scholarly articles, essays, and reviews in 3 issues; these are set out in Appendix II.

Canopy Forum

Launched in fall 2019, Canopy Forum (CF), CSLR's digital publication for the dissemination of expert analysis on law and religion, continued to thrive in its third full year and enjoys a global reach. With several hundred contributors from around the world, and tens of thousands of readers spread across nearly every country in the world, CF is now a fixture in CSLR's portfolio of public scholarship.

During the 2022–23 academic year, Canopy Forum published 4 thematic series, 118 essays, and 17 new videos. Full bibliography can be found in Appendix III.

Canopy Forum's thematic series in 2022–23 (each with several essays) include:

- Kennedy, Carson, and Dobbs: Law and Religion in Pressing Supreme Court Cases
- 200 Years of Johnson v. M'Intosh: Law, Religion, and Native American Lands
- Clothed in Religion: Law and Religious Attire/Garb
- Religion, Property Law, and the Crisis of Houses of Worship (includes webinar videos available on YouTube)

Interactions Podcast

This year, Interactions published five new podcast episodes. Four episodes were part of a season hosted by CSLR Senior Fellows Ira Bedzow and Matthew Cavedon. The fifth episode was hosted by CSLR Executive Director Whitney Barth and Director of Digital Scholarship John Bernau. All episodes were produced by Eythen Anthony, a member of CSLR's undergraduate student team. Read more about the episodes in Appendix VI.

SSRN Research Paper Series

In February 2021, CSLR launched a new Research Paper Series with the Social Science Research Network (SSRN). The CSLR Research Paper Series highlights new and innovative scholarship from faculty and fellows at CSLR that advances the study of law and religion. The CSLR Research Paper Series also highlights excellent student work in the Emerging Scholars series. The CSLR Research Paper Series includes an ejournal distributed to subscribers three times annually by SSRN.

The CSLR Research Papers Series posted 28 papers in 2022–23. As of this report, papers in this series have been downloaded a collective 4,087 times, and the abstracts have been viewed 19,426 times. The papers posted to the CSLR Research Paper Series in 2022–23 can be found in Appendix IV.

Incoming CSLR Scholars for 2023–24

Yasemin Çelikhası is completing her PhD in Islamic Law at the Institute of Social Sciences at Istanbul University. Her dissertation research focuses on modern applications of Islamic family law, specifically within the United States. She is currently a part of a team of researchers based in Turkey who are working on a study examining Islamic law and contemporary mediation and arbitration practices in several countries around the world. She earned a Master's degree in Islamic Law and a Bachelor of Science from Marmara University Faculty of Theology. As a research assistant at Istanbul University, she also teaches different subjects within Islamic Law.

Dr. Thomas Jared Farmer is the McDonald Scholar in Residence at the Center for the Study of Law and Religion at Emory University. He holds a BA in Philosophy from the University of Illinois, an MTS and Th.M. from Emory University's Candler School of Theology, an MA in Philosophy as well as an MA in Religion from Claremont Graduate University and a PhD in the Philosophy of Religion from the University of Münster (Westfälische Wilhelms-Universität Münster).

Dr. Songfeng Li is an associate professor at China University of Political Science and Law in Beijing. He has previously held visiting scholar positions at Notre Dame Law School (2016-2017) and Brigham Young University J. Reuben Clark Law School (2014), and at Emory University School of Law (2012-2013). During his prior visit to Emory Law, he worked closely with Michael J. Perry. Li has published articles in a number of academic journals, including the Journal of Law and Religion, and has translated several books on church-state relations and constitutional law. Dr. Li earned a PhD from China University of Political Science and Law and a masters degree from Tsinghua Law School, and a bachelor's degree from Zhengzhou Law School. His dissertation was on church-state relations. His current research is on religion and constitutional law in China.

Student and Public Engagement

Teaching Emory Students

CSLR is dedicated to scholarship and to teaching. Nearly a dozen courses were taught in law and religion at the Law School, with some open to enrollment from undergraduates and graduate students from other professional schools. CSLR core faculty and fellows taught a number of other core subjects within the Law School curriculum, including arbitration, criminal law, legal issues in family violence, international human rights law, and health law and bioethics. In total, CSLR core faculty and fellows taught 22 courses during the 2022-2023 academic year, reaching over 440 students.

CSLR core faculty and fellows also supervised a number of student writing projects, ranging from law journal comments to SJD and PhD dissertations. Several also employed law students as research assistants.

The 2022-2023 academic year was the first in which Emory Law School offered a law and religion concentration for JD students. As part of the course of study, students may select either practice or an academic track and must complete a First Amendment religious freedom course, a theories and methods in the study of law and religion course, and at least one course in religious legal systems, among other requirements. Read more about the concentration here.

Further engagements are included in Appendix V, a reflection of CSLR’s ongoing commitment to leadership in the field of law and religion.

Conclusion

The Center for the Study of Law and Religion thus celebrates its fortieth anniversary with appreciation for its past and excitement for its future. CSLR is proud to be a center of excellence at Emory University and deeply grateful for the generous support and cooperation of our friends at Emory Law School, Candler School of Theology, Laney Graduate School, and the Emory College Department of Religion. We also express our profound gratitude to the Offices of the President and Provost of Emory University, not only for their ongoing endowment support, but even more important for fostering a robust research culture where interdisciplinary centers like CSLR can thrive. Here’s to the next forty!

Clothed in Religion: Law and Religious Attire/Garb

November 2022 - January 2023

Ongoing debates about religious attire and appearance – such as the prohibition (or requirement) of hijabs in public spaces; beard restrictions in prison, military, and employment contexts; and more – have significant implications for the legal systems and religious practices of communities around the world. Canopy Forum invited scholars and experts to write on this topic. These essays can be found at <https://canopyforum.org/clothed-in-religion-law-and-religious-attire/>.

200 Years of Johnson v. M'Intosh: Law, Religion, and Native American Lands

March - April 2023

Produced through a partnership between Canopy Forum, the Indigenous Values Initiative (IVI), and Syracuse University, this series of essays brought together religion scholars, legal scholars, and Indigenous activists to explore the problematic legacy of Johnson v. M'Intosh (1823) and the 15th century Doctrine of (Christian) Discovery – a legal and religious rationale by which European powers claimed the right to discover and claim lands inhabited by non-Christian peoples. Focusing primarily on the 19th through the 21st centuries, these essays illustrate how Johnson and the Doctrine of Christian Discovery have global import to Turtle Island (especially the United States and Canada) and Aotearoa (New Zealand). These essays can be found at <https://canopyforum.org/200-years-of-johnson-v-mintosh-law-religion-and-native-american-lands/>.

Interactions Podcast Episodes

Interactions explores how law and religion interact in today’s world and throughout history. The podcast is produced by the Center for the Study of Law and Religion and in collaboration with Canopy Forum. More at <https://canopyforum.org/listen/>.

The spring 2023 season of the Interactions podcast produced four episodes, each a conversation with a contributing author to the volume At Home and Abroad: The Politics of American Religion (Columbia University Press).

- At Home and Abroad: Cooper Harriss, co-hosted by Ira Bedzow and Matthew Cavedon (air date: June 6, 2023)
- At Home and Abroad: Winnifred Fallers Sullivan, co-hosted by Ira Bedzow and Matthew Cavedon (air date: May 23, 2023)
- At Home and Abroad: Greg Johnson, co-hosted by Ira Bedzow and Matthew Cavedon (air date: March 17, 2023)
- At Home and Abroad: Sarah Imhoff, co-hosted by Ira Bedzow and Matthew Cavedon (air date February 24, 2023)

Over the summer, the Interactions team produced a special episode that expanded on some of the findings of the Center’s Law and Ministry study, funded by the Lilly Endowment, Inc. The episode was co-hosted by Whitney Barth and John Bernau, and featured interviews with:

- Rev. Dr. Ted Smith
- Rev. Caroline Magee
- Rev. Ingrid McIntyre
